Nodyn | Note

The League of Nations came into being when the Versailles Treaty was ratified on 10 January 1920, although the League of Nations Union had been formed on 13 October 1918 by the amalgamation of two societies which had been working for the establishment of a League of Nations during the concluding years of the First World War. It was not until Whitsuntide 1920 that the first conference took place to consider what Wales might do to further the ideals of the League. That conference was held in Llandrindod Wells on 25 May 1920, and an executive council was appointed to act provisionally until such time as the Welsh National Council could be formed. On 31 January 1922 the Executive Committee decided to launch an intensive campaign throughout Wales, and the first Annual Conference of the Welsh Council met at Easter 1922 at Llandrindod Wells. 'Here it was decided to press for a generous measure of self-government in matters of organisation affecting Wales and Monmouthshire, a demand which was readily granted by the General Council and afterwards endorsed as to detail by the Executive Committee of the League of Nations Union'. (Wales and World Peace. A summary of the Report of The Welsh Council of the League of Nations Union to Whitsuntide, 1923, Cardiff [1923]). In 1945 the League of Nations gave way to the United Nations Association, and the Welsh branch continued its work under the new order. The records show a certain amount of continuity from one organisation to the other, for example, within Executive Committee Minute Book A1/3, which spans the period 4 November 1936 to 29 February 1956.

Hanes Gwarchodol | Custodial history

This collection represents the surviving records of the League of Nations Union and the United Nations Association up to 1968, the main body of which were transferred from the Temple of Peace to the National Library of Wales in 1965, with additional deposits being made in 1968 and 1970. It will be seen from the list of surviving files (Secondary records) that a large proportion of the records did not reach the National Library. Some were probably destroyed at a date prior to transfer, perhaps because they were no longer of administrative value, although it is hard not to suspect that survival may not largely have been haphazard. The list of files which is presented below is reproduced from the surviving office list (now appendix) and may be of some value. Only those files whose numbers are marked by an asterix survive. The classification of records follows that given on the files, with the result that similar material occasionally appears under different headings.
