

1. Lord Byron, 'English Bards and Scotch Reviewers. A Satire':

ff. iv<sup>r-v</sup>

Preface:

With regard to the real talents of many of the poetical persons whose performances are mentioned ... though his own hand should suffer in the encounter he will be amply satisfied.

pp. 1-61

[Poem]:

Time was, ere yet in these degenerate days ...

And Urge thy Bard to gain a name like thine.

The first stanzas of the published poem are omitted, the text starting at line 97; the author's annotations are included as footnotes throughout.

Dated at London, 2 January 1815.

2. French poems

f. 68a

'L'enfant aux cheveux d'or':

"Mon cher enfant, O mon bel Ange ...

Tu n'as plus tes beaux cheveux d'or!"

'L'étrangère':

O n'avez-vous jamais, heureuses jeunes filles, ...

Vous avez un trésor au ciel!
